From the Archbishop's Desk

The launch of this Strategic Plan marks a new Chapter in the life of Voice of Salvation and Healing Church International (VOSH). The plan builds on the rich history of our ministry which spans close to 60 years while at the same time responding to the realities of the current times.

The plan has been developed at a time when there have been significant political changes and developments in Kenya, and when with the implementation of the new constitution, the country has entered a new dispensation. It also recognizes the political challenges the country is facing and the new economic dispensation that is expected to emerge with the new constitution. The plan also recognizes there are immense opportunities for the Church so long as we are able to respond appropriately to the dynamic and fast changing environment. We are aware that there are a number of threats that we have to overcome, with fervent prayer and fasting, such as the threats the church faces from Muslim fundamentalists and terrorist attacks. The other factors that were considered are environmental challenges and issues, including the impact of global warming and climate change.

It is my hope and prayer that the entire VOSH fraternity will own this plan and prayerfully find their part in it, either individually or collectively, and commit themselves to work towards the realization of the goals and objectives we set.

Rt. Rev. Dr. Silas Owiti

From the Presiding Bishop

This is our first Strategic Plan and it covers the five-year period 2015 to 2019. This plan has been developed through a process which involved the leadership of the Church and a number of people who represented different interests within the VOSH fraternity. We embarked on this process because we knew it would give us opportunity to reflect prayerfully on our past, assess carefully where we are at the moment, and ask God to give us a clear direction forward. It is a bold step on the part of the leadership of the Church, as we subjected ourselves to the painful process of self-evaluation, and prepared ourselves to take some bold moves as we reposition the Church to effectively carry out the ministry for which we are called.

The process gave us opportunity to reflect on the Vision, Mission and Core Values of the Church in the context of the present realities. We feel rejuvenated as we dream of “A people transformed by the Gospel of Jesus Christ and the power of the Holy Spirit”. We have re-affirmed our call as we commit ourselves “To be a prophetic voice proclaiming the full Gospel of Jesus Christ, disciple, equip and commission saints to serve across the world”. Our core values of “prayer, integrity, holiness, modesty, humility, care and justice” will augment our commitment to a life that glorifies the name of the Lord in a wholesome manner. We have given insight to the core values to make our members relate with them in the day-to-day life.

We have identified seven areas that will make our focus in the next five years. These are: (a) Development of a strong ministry that responds to present day realities, (b) Building the skills and competencies of the leadership, ministers and members to respond to changing times, (c) Streamlining and strengthen leadership, governance and management structures and systems for the Church, (d) Improving the physical and other facilities including sanctuaries, offices, and equipment, (e) Enhancing the institutional capacity of the Church for efficient and effective support to ministry, (f) Establishing business ventures as additional means of generating resources to support the Church in its ministry, and (g) Strengthening the capacity of the Church for effective engagement in advocacy and lobbying. I urge that we all pull in the same direction as we embrace strategic thinking in our ministry.

We do not want to approach the implementation of this plan with our human understanding and trust in our abilities. We commit ourselves to the Lord to direct our steps (Proverbs 16:9). In this respect I urge that we continue in fervent prayer, and at every stage be careful to listen to the Lord. I believe that through prayer, we will actualize and even surpass what we have set out in this plan, for the Glory of God. The easy part is done and we now move on to the more challenging part, the implementation process. In order to succeed we must have the resolve to implement the plan, knowing that it is not by might, nor by power, but by the Spirit of the Lord (Zechariah 4:6). To quote the words of Og Mandino, “Dreams and plans are of no value without action. Fireflies give light only when they fly”. We shall therefore forge ahead as we prepare for renewal of the Church, bring hope to the many destitute and hurting people, and make our contribution to the healing of this beautiful land of Kenya!

I want to thank our Almighty God for the far he has brought us, both corporately as a church and individually. We are where we are today because of His mercies and favour, which He daily showers upon us. My appreciation too goes to the Archbishop and Chairman of Voice of Salvation and Healing International, Rev. Dr. Silas Owiti with whose blessings we undertook this process. I extend my appreciation to the National Council of Elders who endorsed the process and gave us the impetus to move on with it. The process would not have been successful without the input of many brothers and sisters who responded to the questionnaires or made themselves available to be interviewed by the consultants.

To all of us, the easy part is done; the hard work now begins. I am however confident that we shall all prayerfully play our part individually and collectively as we allow God to lead us in making this strategic plan a reality for the Glory of His Name.

Rt. Rev. Dr. Winnie Owiti

From the General Secretary

This strategic plan is an important tool for the leadership of Voice of Salvation and Healing Church International in providing direction in faith and spiritual growth. It provides a roadmap that will guide us in our Christian witness in a systematic, effective and efficient way.

The plan will help us put in place ways and means of assessing qualitative and quantitative development of our ministry. Building on our motto "One Way One Job" this plan will keep us focused in addressing key issues that have been identified while at the same time remaining sensitive to the developments around us. We anticipate that our ministry will not only touch our members but will impact all communities in Kenya and extend to other parts of the world.

It is our prayer that the implementation of this plan will give us new impetus and it will be instrumental in building a community of believers whose lives stand out in the midst of an evil and perverse society and who will be their salt and light. It is my hope that we shall continue to commit ourselves to prayer and let God work in our lives and we shall always seek his divine guidance through the power of the Holy Spirit in the implementation of this plan. It is also my hope that we continue to be sensitive to changes and developments around us, and always strive to prayerfully respond to them in a proactive manner.

It is my prayer and desire that our members will be grounded in the faith and we respond to the increasing demands of ministry.

Rev. Barack Oriawo

Acknowledgements

The development of this strategic plan has been made possible by the contributions of the many people who gave their time and energy to ensure that VOSH has a strategic plan that will give it a clear direction over the next five years. From the time the idea was born during the Council of Ministers Retreat in March 2014 at Ukweli Pastoral Centre, the leadership of the church has ensured that it does not remain a pipe dream. We appreciate the guidance and direction that the National Council of Elders gave to us throughout the process. We cannot take for granted the sacrifice and commitment of the men and women who participated in the strategic planning workshop which was held at VOSH Headquarters Kisumu from July 29 to August 1, 2014. It was four days of hard work but the team (of 25 people) which was made of Bishops, Pastors and other members of the Board, measured up to the task and were delighted to walk together and see the process unfold as we saw the plan develop step by step until we got to the final product, a document we can now hold in our hands. You all put in valuable time before, during, and after the strategic planning workshop. We wish to sincerely appreciate each one of you and say a big THANK YOU. We also wish to appreciate the support we received from the consultant who facilitated the process; Mr. Ochieng' O. Oloo and his colleague Mrs. Priscilla K. Oyamo of Strategic Dimensions Ltd.

The development of this plan has enabled us learn many lessons that we will draw on as we implement it. We acknowledge that we cannot walk this path alone and for us to successfully implement the plan we shall continue to work in collaboration with the many people who hold this church dearly. These include our members, the communities that we serve through our ministry, our partners, other churches, government agencies, as well as individuals who value what we do and have committed to support us through prayers, fellowship, human and other resources. It requires all of us to have an attitude of being fruitful both individually and collectively. That means that whatever our part is in the implementation of this plan, we must undertake it with diligence. We recognize that we are stewards and to be good stewards we must be faithful, available and teachable.

VOSH is indebted to the staff and the many friends and partners who have walked with us and supported us along this journey. They have enabled us to preach the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ and touch many lives through the preached Word of God and other welfare activities. We continue to count on your support and fellowship as we respond to the many opportunities that God has put before us. We request that you continue to pray and stand with us for God's direction and blessing as we confront the challenges that will come with the implementation of this plan. We however stand encouraged that if the Lord be with us, who can be against us. It is our desire to see many more lives in Kenya, East Africa, the continent of Africa, and indeed the whole world transformed and empowered for the Glory of God.

Rev. Dr. Winnie Owiti

2.0 INTERNAL CONTEXT

2.1 GOVERNANCE AND MANAGEMENT STRUCTURES

2.1.1 Governance Structure

The highest decision-making organ for the church is the General Meeting which is held at least once a year (the Annual General Meeting). From this evolve the following governance structure of VOSH which is at four levels:

- International Council of Elders that is made up of all Presiding Bishops from the countries where VOSH has a presence (currently Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda), all National Secretary Generals, all National Treasurers, and All National Women Leaders. The responsibility of the Council is to oversee and harmonise the implementation of Church policies internationally wherever VOSH churches operate.
- National Council of Elders is the highest governance and decision-making organ in each country where VOSH has a presence. The Council is made up of the Presiding Bishop, the Assistant Presiding Bishop, the Secretary General, the Assistant Secretary General, the Treasurer, the National Council of Bishops (all Bishops from all Regions), the National Women leader, and the National Youth Leader. The Council is responsible for formulation of policies that guide the ministry at the national level, strategic guidance of the ministry, and ensuring good stewardship and prudent management of resources entrusted to the Church.
- Executive Council (Mission Board) is charged with the responsibility of the general administration, management and direction of all spiritual, business matters, and other affairs of the Church on behalf of the National Council of Elders. The Executive Council is made up of the Presiding Bishop (who is the Chair), the Assistant Presiding Bishop (who is the Assistant Chair), the Secretary General and the National Treasurer.
- National Council of Ministers is responsible for facilitating and implementing policies formulated by the National Council of Elders. The Council is made up of all members of the National Council of Elders, Pastor Overseers, Pastors of churches that have more than 50 people, Regional Women Leaders, Regional Youth Leaders, Representative of Evangelists, Elders from Regions, Representative of Retirees, and Assembly Secretaries/Treasurers.

In addition, the Church has a Board of Trustees which is vested with the responsibility of holding the Church property in Trust in line with the Provisions of the Society's Act.

The Presiding Bishop is also the Executive Officer of the Church and heads the ministries and operations of the Church in the country.

2.1.2 Management Structure

The overall management of the ministry of VOSH is vested with the Executive Council (Mission Board) and is coordinated through the Mission Headquarters based in Kisumu,

Kenya. The Executive Committee works through the following committees in executing the business of the church:

- (a) Women of Faith Committee
- (b) Youth Committee
- (c) Welfare Committee
- (d) Development Committee
- (e) Land Board

The Church currently has 13 Bishops who are responsible for pastoral care (spiritual issues) as well as administrative issues in the Regions.

The Church Administrator is responsible for coordination of the national activities of the Church under the direction of the Presiding Bishop and the General Secretary.

2.2 MINISTRY APPROACH

VOSH has adopted the “five-fold ministry” which is derived from Ephesians 4:11 as its ministry approach. The foundations of this are the distinct ministries and roles of apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers. In this respect the Church recognizes the gifting of pastors, teachers, apostles, evangelists and prophets in its ministry work.

2.3 MINISTRY STRUCTURES

2.3.1 Core Ministry

The Church undertakes its ministry through a network of 674 local congregations that make 64 Assemblies which are then organized in 24 Regions. According to statistics for 2013, the Church has a registered membership of 30,971. The total numbers of men are 5,633 (18.2%), total numbers of women are 13,528 (43.7%), total numbers of youth are 9,161 (29.6%), and the total numbers of children attending Sunday school are 2,649 (8.5%). Sunday school is reported to exist in only 9 out of the 24 Regions (Eldoret, Gusii, Kericho, Kisumu West, Mombasa, Mt. Elgon, Nairobi, Rachuonyo North, Siaya North, and Transmara). The majority of members and attendees are mostly Luos and the presence of the church is predominant in what is commonly referred to as Luo Nyanza. The average membership is 46 members per local congregation, 484 per Assembly and 1,290 per Region. In 2013 the Church recorded 2,588 new converts. The data on the number of churches and membership by category and by Region for 2013 is presented in Appendix 2.

2.3.2 Social Ministry

VOSH is a family church that cares deeply for the welfare of its members. There is a welfare structure that runs through from the church level to the national level. The church has also established a formal system of monthly contributions for a welfare fund to support members in need.

2.3.3 Institutions of the Church

The Church has established the following three institutions:

- VOSH Bible School: The school is located in Kajulu in the outskirts of Kisumu City. It was established in September 2000. The School offers a two-year diploma course and has so far trained 178 ministers (5 Higher Diplomas, 8 Diplomas, 76 Certificates and 89 Certificates of Attendance). The School which is built on 0.9 hectares of land has established basic facilities that include 3 permanent classes, a permanent office, semi-permanent dormitories, a permanent library, six-door semi-permanent latrines, semi-permanent bathrooms and permanent administrator's house.
- Mombasa Property: The property was purchased in 2009. It is a commercial center that has office facilities as well as a hall and classrooms.
- Ebenezer Children's Home: VOSH established a children's home in Ahero, a small town about 20 kms from Kisumu City in 1992. The home in Ahero currently caters for 500 children. It is built on 4 acres of land and has facilities that include three dormitories, three offices and classrooms. The home has established two branches, one is Tido in Kibos which is a rehabilitation center that caters for 58 children, and the other is Ayweyo in Nyakach which caters for 255 children. The Tido facility sits on 5 acres of land and the Ayweyo facility sits on 1.25 acres of land.
- Ebenezer Academy: VOSH established Ebenezer Academy in the same location as the children's home in Ahero in 1998. The school currently has an enrolment of 720 students in both primary and secondary sections. The school facilities include 4 classrooms for the nursery section, 12 classrooms for the primary section, and 4 classrooms for the secondary section. Two other schools have been established; one Ayweyo with an enrolment of 255 pupils, and the other in Tido with an enrolment of 58 pupils. The facilities in the school in Ayweyo include 6 permanent classrooms, 8 temporary classrooms and a dining hall.

2.4 FINANCIAL RESOURCE BASE

There has been a steady increase in financial resources for the Church even though it has not developed effective mechanisms to establish the amount of resources mobilized throughout the entire church. A breakdown of financial resources for two years (2012 and 2013) show that the three major sources of financial resources for the church are:

- Tithes which made up 32.58% and 28.89% of the Church's income in 2012 and 2013 respectively.
- Thanksgiving which made up 22.73% and 19.99% of the Church's income in 2012 and 2013 respectively.
- Fundraising which made up 15.03% and 26.85% of the Church's income in 2012 and 2013 respectively.

The Church has experienced consistent growth in tithes and thanksgiving from year to year. This is a testimony that the church has a rich financial resource base that can be harnessed further to support ministry.

- Tithes increased by 15.14% in 2011, 23.83% in 2012 and 24.11% in 2013.
- Thanksgiving increased by 25.31% in 2011, 19.39% in 2012 and 23.08% in 2013.
- Fundraising increased by 150% from 2012 to 2013.

2.6 STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES

2.6.1 Strengths

An analysis of the internal environment of VOSH identified a number of key areas of strengths that have been instrumental in supporting and promoting the ministry of the Church. VOSH can build on these strengths in order to position itself for more effective ministry.

1. Unique Presence: The Church has a widely expanded network with a presence in many regions though it is more predominant in Nyanza Region. The outreach gets down to grassroots and reaching out to the lowly and poor. Some of the areas where the church has presence have not been penetrated by other churches especially the mainstream churches.
2. Emphasis on Sound Unadulterated Gospel: The strong emphasis on sound doctrine has significantly contributed to the grounding of its members and congregations on the Word of God.
3. Vibrant Ministry: The Church has maintained a vibrant evangelistic ministry that is focused on bringing people to Christ, engaging the members in prayer and fasting, and strong emphasis on discipleship.
4. Tradition/Culture of the Church: VOSH has developed a strong culture as a family church with a strong welfare orientation where members feel welcomed, cared for and loved. This has given a strong sense of belonging and has created very strong bond among members. The Church has a uniform system of church services and there are clear by-laws that govern activities such as weddings, funerals, and sacraments. There is unity in pooling together resources to maintain this welfare orientation. This culture is strengthened by the emphasis placed on relationships by the leadership at all levels.
5. Leadership and Governance: The Church is guided by a constitution which was last reviewed 10 years ago. It has an established leadership structure and leadership team made up of experienced and committed people. There has been continuity in leadership guided by the founder Archbishop Dr. Silas Owiti. The respect that is bestowed on him as the founding father is instrumental in steering the leadership.
6. Management Structure: The Church has established management structure that is at four levels: national, regional, assembly and local congregation. The Mission Headquarters provides the overall coordination of the ministry activities of the Church. Departments to support this coordination (Women and Youth) have been established.
7. Delivery Infrastructure: The Church has established an infrastructure made up of the Mission Headquarters, network of close to 700 local congregations and three institutions (Bible School, Children's Home, and a Primary School) through which it carries out its ministry. Most of the local congregations have basic equipment required to support their work such as public address systems. Most churches also have access to telephone communications.

8. Human Resources Base: VOSH has a large pool of willing and committed people with diverse skills and competencies that support its ministry (existing and potential ministers). There is also a large pool of professionals in various fields. Both ordained and lay ministers within VOSH (Bishops, Regional Leaders, Senior Pastors, Pastors, Youth Leaders, and Women Leaders) who serve in the Church while pursuing their vocations elsewhere. There is willingness to serve and demonstrated commitment to work both by those who are ministers and the support team. In addition, VOSH has a large number of young intellectuals within the church that if brought on board (like incorporating them in policy making forums and Church Projects) will help steer the Church ahead.
9. Financial Resources: VOSH has reasonably good financial resource base which has experienced remarkable growth in the last four years. The Church depends largely on financial resources mobilized through tithes and offering, thanksgiving services, and fundraising activities. The membership is generally good in giving and has responded well to demands for financial support for various initiatives.

2.6.2 Weaknesses

The analysis also revealed key weaknesses that VOSH will have to address for more effective and greater impact in its ministry.

1. Culture/Tradition: VOSH has maintained the "old time religion" gospel and doctrines which many young people have not found accommodative and has resulted in large migration of youth to other churches. The manner of handling social welfare within the church is oriented more towards the way of handling welfare issues by Luos and is not too accommodative to members of other ethnic groups.
2. Ministry Deficiencies: There are a number of significant ministry deficiencies in VOSH. These include:
 - a. The Sunday school ministry has not been effectively mainstreamed in the Church and this has partly contributed to poor bonding of children born and raised in the Church with the Church as they grow up.
 - b. A large number of ministers lack theological knowledge.
 - c. The Church's ministry has been skewed to the spiritual matters and has not given adequate attention to social development and establishment of business ventures that would support ministry.
 - d. The attempts to engage in business ventures have not been successful largely because the Church has not deployed people with the right skills and competencies to such ventures.

- e. There are a number of interest groups that have not received adequate attention of the Church. These include single mature ladies and young people as they go through tertiary and university education.
 - f. The Church has not developed ministries that target institutions such as schools, prisons and hospitals.
3. Leadership and Management: The roles and responsibilities of the various governance and management organs of the church are not well defined and understood. The Church has adopted a centralized decision-making system which is seen not to be empowering to local congregations. The leadership is also seen to be intolerant of divergent opinions and young people feel they do not have space to make contributions that would lead to change.
 4. Unsustainable Structure: The current number of Regions (24) is too many for the number of Assemblies and would be unsustainable if the Church moved towards deploying fulltime ministers to be in charge of Regions (to be equivalent of Dioceses in other churches).
 5. Policies and Systems: The Church has not established policies and systems that are commensurate with its growth and current scope of operations. Where policies exist, they are not well documented (policy and procedure manuals) and shared widely within the fraternity. The institutional systems are either weak or non-existent in many aspects.
 6. Remuneration System: The Church does not have structured scheme of service for its ministers and support staff. Most ministers including Bishops are not full-time employees of the church. The current system of remuneration is not in line with developments in peer churches. Moreover, the system of remuneration by VOSH is not motivating and does not encourage the ministers to dedicate their efforts and energies to ministry. The reward system encourages those in leadership and other positions of responsibility to take a monopolistic approach to handling ministry.
 7. Human Resource Capacity: Most of the people in leadership and management are considered on the basis of their call but are largely seen to lack capacity commensurate with the level of responsibilities assigned to them. The Church has not effectively utilized the large pool of professionals in its membership for technical support in governance, management and operations.
 8. Facilities and Equipment: The Church facilities especially the church sanctuaries have not kept up with the times. Currently only about 16.3% of the sanctuaries are permanent structures, about 60.2% are semi-permanent structures, another 16.1% are rented facilities and 7.4% are open spaces (people meet under trees). The Church has secured title to only 52 properties where it has established sanctuaries. There is lack of a coordinated plan for construction of sanctuaries. In addition, the Church lacks basic facilities to support its ministry work such as IT equipment (computers, printers), PA systems, vehicles for ministers, and other equipment such as photocopiers. A number of sanctuaries in the rural areas lack electricity,

- 9. Financial Resource Base and Financial Management: The Church has not developed a strong financial resource base. Its income is generated mainly from members through tithes, offerings, end-year thanksgiving, and fundraising events. Even though there is significant growth in the financial resource base over the last four years, the members find the current styles of mobilizing resources burdensome and in some cases it leads to less giving as people adopt a cautious approach. The lack of basic understanding on the principles of giving especially in rural areas also makes it difficult to rely on the current mode of giving to raise adequate funds for ministry and related needs.

The Church has not adopted systems that promote professional financial management and sound accountability.

- 10. Poor Uptake of Technology: VOSH has not embraced technology enthusiastically neither has it embraced social media to promote its ministry. The operations of the church in this respect are still largely supported by manual systems. The Church does not have a website and does not have an e-mail domain. It has not explored other IT based systems and channels to enhance ministry such as computer assisted preaching, e-mail, skype, radio and television, (in terms of preaching, communication, reporting and holistic management). It lacks recording equipment and therefore does not record its many rich messages.

- 11. Poor Business Orientation: VOSH previous orientation was a focus on its core ministry of preaching the gospel and did not develop ability to initiate and manage commercial business ventures that would provide additional income streams to support ministry. The recent attempts to venture into commercial business activities have not realized good results. There is also perception that the existing investments are not managed in a transparent manner but this is contributed to largely by lack of appropriate structures to support this type of engagement.

- 12. Lack of Effective Communication Structures: The communication processes within VOSH are often slow and therefore church members do not receive information in a timely manner. The Church has not established structures that would facilitate effective communication flow at all levels.

3.0 EXTERNAL ENVIRONMENT

3.1 COUNTRY OVERVIEW

Kenya covers an area of 582,650 sq. Km with an estimated population of 44.4 million¹. About 65.2% live in the rural areas². There are over 100 urban areas (cities and towns) in the country (Appendix 5).³ Approximately 52% of the population are women, 60 % of the population is below the age of 35 which makes it a very youthful nation. The country has a diverse ethnic nationality of more than 40 groups including the Kikuyu (22%), Luhya (14%), Luo (13%), Kalenjin (12%), Kamba (11%), Kisii (6%), Meru (6%), other African (15%), and non-African (Asian, European, and Arab) 1%⁴. Kenya operates a bilingual language system with English and Swahili used as the official languages.

The country has a two-tier government system made up of the national government and 47 counties (Appendix 4). Each county is headed by a governor and has a full-fledged government structure. At the national level, the executive is autonomous from the legislature with the ministers drawn from outside the legislature. The legislature has moved from one to two chambers with a 350-member national assembly and a 68-member senate. The latter is charged with the responsibility of protecting the devolved structures.

The judiciary has also gone through a series of reforms, including competitive appointment of all senior judges, vetting of judges and magistrates, and the introduction of a Supreme Court. Several constitutional commissions have been set up to provide checks and balances on the executive and the legislature.

3.2 POLITICAL CONTEXT

The period since 2002 has seen significant political changes and developments in Kenya. A new constitution which has been proclaimed as one of the most advanced in the world was promulgated in August 2010. It brought with devolution of power from a centralised government and has moved the country from a centralised administrative structure that was managed through eight provinces (which was commonly known as Provincial Administration) to a two-tier government system made up of the national government and 47 counties. A key feature of the new constitution is public participation of people on issues that affect them. The full implementation of the new constitution is expected to have increased resources allocated to county governments and therefore to communities. The new constitutional dispensation has however created very high expectations among the populace. It is expected that it will bring with it a new social order and economic dispensation that will promote values that are supported by biblical principles.

Insecurity continues to be a major challenge in Kenya. It has become part of the day-to-day life in the country, with growing state of criminal violence with many lives being lost and property destroyed daily countywide. This rising insecurity has caused a state of restlessness in the country. In addition to this, Kenya has suffered a series of terrorist-related attacks including the Westgate attack in April 2014 that killed 67 people, Mpeketoni attack in June 2014 in which over 100 people were killed, and Mandera attack in November and December 2014 in which 28 and 37 people were killed respectively. This is in addition to a string of other attacks in Northern Kenya and the coastal city of Mombasa. The state of insecurity has been compounded by inter-ethnic clashes that have seen scores of people killed in Mandera, Wajir, Samburu, West Pokot and Turkana. The massacre of 42 policemen in Baragoi in Samburu in November 2012 and 21 policemen in Kapedo in Turkana in October 2014 by bandits adds to an already bad situation and exposes how vulnerable the situation is at the moment.

The deeply entrenched ethnic divisions that were largely created with the outcome of the elections in December 2007 which led to the ethnic clashes that led to the death of more than 1,100 and displacement of over 600,000 people continues to contribute to a volatile political situation. The failure to address the many historical land cases and the feeling that the current government does not provide adequate ethnic balance in senior government appointments is also a major contributor to the situation. The political situation in the country at the moment is stoking the fire of ethnic hatred which is fuelled further by the seemingly hate going on in the social media. The state of fear this has created in the country if not addressed could turn into serious conflict.

3.3 ECONOMIC CONTEXT

Kenya is the biggest and most advanced economy in East and Central Africa. The development blueprint Vision 2030, aims to transform Kenya into a newly industrialised middle-income country providing a high quality of life to all its citizens by the year 2030. This is premised on three pillars, economic, social and political. The economic pillar aims to improve the prosperity of all Kenyans through an economic development programme, covering all the regions of Kenya, and aiming to achieve an average Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growth rate of 10% per annum beginning in 2012. The social pillar seeks to build a just and cohesive society with social equity in a clean and secure environment. The political pillar aims to realize a democratic political system founded on issue-based politics that respects the rule of law, and protects the rights and freedoms of every individual in Kenyan society.

Kenya achieved lower middle-income status in 2012, according to revised national statistics released in September 2014. The economy is 25% larger than earlier estimated, and Kenya is now ranked the ninth largest African country. Kenya's economy continued to recover in 2013 from the slowdown experienced in 2011. The economic growth was 4.9% in 2013 and is projected to achieve a growth of 5.7% in 2014. Although the economy has grown at a macro level, the benefits of this growth have not trickled down to the ordinary people. While the country has a wealthy urban population, about 60% of the population exists on one meal per day. The UNDP Human Development Index for Kenya is 0.519 which places it at 145 out of 186 countries in the world.

The major challenges to sustained economic growth continue to be poor infrastructure, terrorism threats and related insecurities, high rate of unemployment (it is estimated that more than 2 million Kenyans are without gainful employment of which 64% are youth), high levels of poverty (though it is reported that poverty has declined from 47% in 2005 to about 34-42% recently), unsustainable external & internal debt, and high levels of crime.

3.4 SOCIO-CULTURAL ENVIRONMENT

The Kenyan socio-cultural landscape comprises diversity in various forms. Kenya is made up of over 42 different people groups, languages and races. Alongside these are the dimensions of gender, smaller people groups, special interest groups and physically challenged.

There are striking differences between urban and rural conditions, with urban households much more likely to have access to health care, schools, and piped water than those in rural areas. According to the 2009 census, about 70% of the urban population lives in informal settlements. Kenya's development blue print, Vision 2030 estimates that by the year 2015, the level of urbanization will have reached 44.5%, and eventually the percentage is set to reach 54% by 2030 with nearly 30 million people living in urban areas.

An emerging phenomenon is that most people do not relocate to the rural homes immediately after retirement as was the practice in the past. Whereas it is anticipated that with devolution there will be a relocation of manpower from city to the counties and therefore reducing the city population, this may not be an immediate thing and it is anticipated that in the next five years the city population will continue to grow. The increased population will put more pressure on a city infrastructure that can hardly cope with the demands on it.

Inequality in the country has increasingly become a source of political and social conflict. Kenya is ranked among the most unequal societies in the world, indicating that the economic growth the country has realized in the past years has done little to bridge the gap between the rich and the poor. According to the Global Human Development Report (2010) Kenya was ranked 103 in the list of inequality – making it the 66th most unequal country in the world. The high level of inequality which is experienced in all spheres of Kenyan life including gender, economic activities, health and education is a major hindrance to the government's efforts to promote human rights and to realize the MDGs.

The family order continues to be affected in a number of ways, including change in lifestyles, social and economic pressures. There are increasing cases of separation and divorce (and Christians are no exception), delayed marriages, and single parents. As younger families opt for fewer children, the next few years will see a shift in Kenya's demography and it is expected that the youth will make up close to 70% of the population by the year 2020. This calls for more focused ministry interventions by churches such as VOSH.

HIV/AIDS continues to be a major challenge despite the many ongoing efforts to address it. Most of those who are considered highly at risk are young women aged 15–24. Their risk of being infected with HIV is 5.5 times more likely than young men of the same age. Practices such as drug abuse and consumption of illicit brews are also major contributors to the high prevalence rate among the urban poor. HIV/AIDS is a major contributor to the estimated 2.4 million orphans in Kenya majority of whom are from low-income families.

The entertainment industry in Kenya has been very robust and with it has emerged the culture of celebrities which has a lot of influence on the youth.

3.5 RELIGIOUS CONTEXT

Kenya is also a multi-religious state with a diversity of religions, denominations and sects. The freedom of religion and worship is guaranteed in the Kenyan constitution. It also separates church and state, and guards its citizens from religious discrimination and unwelcome religious pressure. According to 2009 national census, Christians make up 83% of the population, Muslims make 11%, African traditionalist at 1.6% and Hindus (heavily concentrated in the main cities) at 0.1%. In addition, there are other religions such as Sikhs, Buddhists, and Bahai. There has been increasing onslaught of Eastern Religions in the country and increasing Muslim radicalism. It is estimated` that about 38 to 45% of the country's population are Christians of Protestant orientation while Roman Catholics make about 28 to 33% of the population. There are also a host of Pentecostal Churches, African Independent Churches, and a number of Charismatic Churches. It is estimated that evangelical churches make up approximately 32% of the Kenya population. Even though the majority of the Kenya's population is Christian, over 60% of those who claim to be Christian do not attend a place of Christian worship on a regular basis.⁵ The number is likely to increase with the use of technology as more people resort to listening to Sunday services through television, u-tube and other such means.

The country has experienced a greater move towards churches working together across the ecumenical and evangelical divide. Among the churches the cooperation is realized through the National Council of Churches of Kenya (NCCK) which is a fellowship of protestant churches and Christian organizations registered in Kenya, the Evangelical Alliance of Kenya (EAK) is the national umbrella organization for evangelical churches in Kenya, and The Organization of Africa Instituted Churches (OAIC) is an association that unites indigenous African churches (African Independent and Instituted Churches). In addition, the Inter-Religious Council of Kenya (IRCK) provides a forum that brings together all faith communities in Kenya to work together to deepen interfaith dialogue and collaboration for common action. There are a number of indigenous Churches most of which emerge as ministries revolving around specific individuals rather denominations and who do not belong to any of these organised associations. The evangelical churches are adopting more traditional systems and now engage more in forums where issues are addressed jointly.

Religious activities across all beliefs in Kenya (whether Christian, Islamic, or Hindu) is on the increase. Among these are evangelical churches who have adopted the "Mega Church" model and whose focus is the gospel of prosperity. It is believed that congregations are expanding amid failure of economic growth and many people are turning to find refuge or seek solace in all religions. Amidst this, the push towards secularism and relativism has given humanism space to take over the place of religion particularly among the youth. There is also an emerging influence of eastern religions and cults. The country has also experienced greater Muslim influence in public, private and civil society sectors. Unfortunately, in Kenya, religion, especially some Christian denominations and religious groups participate in politics as ethnic blocks and this has further contributed to promoting negative ethnicity in the country.

Some key developments in the religious landscape in Kenya include:

- Strategic positioning of Muslims in key positions under the guise of affirmative action.
- Increasing Muslim radicalism which also takes advantage of the high level of unemployment among the youth to convert them to Islam. There are also areas where there is high tension between Muslims and Christians. A number of churches have been attacked and Christians killed by radical Muslims.
- The emergences of tele-evangelists that are seen to have commercialized the gospel in most cases for personal gain and in most cases do not promote sound doctrine.
- The use of technology to propagate the gospel particularly the media (Radio and TV) and other internet channels such as U-tube. While this has opened up wider opportunities to spread the gospel, there is a growing number of Christians who do not physically attend church.
- The effect of postmodernism that encourages the youth to break away from established Christian traditions and practices.
- The infiltration of the celebrity culture in the church which is encouraging aping of ways of doing things that conflict with some of the established practices and standards of most churches.

3.6 TECHNOLOGICAL DEVELOPMENTS

The country has experienced rapid technological changes and information technology is now widely in use, both in urban and rural areas. The liberalized airwaves and internet connectivity has provided the Kenyan population with wider space for access to information. Kenya currently has six (6) television stations with outreach that covers many parts of the country and one (1) with regional coverage; about 30 FM Radio Stations with close to 50% broadcasting in local dialects. There are about eight (8) Christian FM Radio Stations. The onset of the mobile phones has opened up many parts of the country to telecommunications. It is estimated that there are close to 25 million mobile phone subscribers and over 10 million internet users in the country. There is increased use of social networks such as face book, twitter, and LinkedIn, both by the youth, professionals and business community at large. It is possible to have internet access in any part of the country where is mobile phone network.

3.7 OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS

The Kenyan and Global landscape has changed significantly since VOSH was established over 50 years ago. The globe has become a village which means that there is no institution or entity that can work in isolation. Analysis of the external environment has revealed a number of areas of opportunities for the Church as well as inherent threats. VOSH will endeavour to take advantage of the opportunities and find appropriate strategic responses to the threats.

3.7.1 Opportunities

1. The New Political Dispensation: The new political dispensation and adoption of a devolved system of governance provides opportunity for VOSH to engage in processes that promote good governance, prepare members for engagement in people driven processes, and influence government policies and processes particularly at county level. It is expected that devolution will lead to improvement in the economies of counties, provide increased job opportunities, and this in turn will lead to reverse migration of people from cities and towns to the counties. The Church should identify those areas in the constitution that provides for its engagement especially on issues that affect the citizenry and have good understanding of the Bill of Rights. VOSH should refocus itself to respond to proactively to these developments. Furthermore, the Church should use the space provided by the freedom of worship and expression to promote godly values more so within the county structures.
2. Government Economic Empowerment Policies: There are a number of opportunities created by government policies aimed at economic empowerment of women, youth and people with disabilities. VOSH should create understanding and facilitate its members to utilize these opportunities. Included here are the Women Enterprise Fund and the Youth Fund. For VOSH members to effectively engage with these and other economic empowerment programs there will be need to train members to embrace entrepreneurship skills and spirit for self-employment.
3. Technological Developments: The developments that have taken place in technology, particularly the internet and media provide VOSH with increased opportunities for wider ministries. There are increased opportunities to use Television and Radio (including vernacular radio stations) to reach out to wider audiences in terms of numbers and geographical coverage and especially those that do not attend church. The social media and improved ICT can be adopted by the Church and used as a platform to reach members and coordinate its activities. The Church should also adopt IT to enhance efficiency in providing support to ministry.
4. Improved Infrastructures: The road infrastructure has improved significantly in the last five years and this has seen increased accessibility to many parts of the country. In addition, rural electrification has extended to many parts of the country. The use of mobile telephones has revolutionized communication in Kenya with about 80 percent of Kenya covered by mobile network signals. These developments make it easy for the Church to use ICT even in remote parts of the country.

3.7.2 Threats

1. Political Climate in the Country: The effect of negative ethnicity especially since the post-election violence of 2008 and the election experiences of 2013 have continued to polarize the country and the animosity extends to the Church, threatening the very foundations of Christian ministry. VOSH will have to position itself to be part of the healing ministry in the country.
2. Challenges of the Current Constitution: The quest for individual rights as provided to in the new constitution is likely to challenge some doctrines that are held by the Church. Some of the areas where immediate challenges are emerging include the push by homosexuals for their rights and same sex marriages to be recognized, reproductive health issues which are likely to promote promiscuity among young people and encourage abortions, and limitation of religious activities in public schools. There is also a growing culture where Kenyans are becoming litigious on every issue and this is encroaching on churches. Church leaders would find themselves challenged if they are not well informed on the constitution and legal developments. VOSH on its part will need to develop mechanisms for keeping its leaders educated and well informed on the Kenya constitution and related developments.

3. Muslim Fundamentalism: There is increased fundamentalism among Muslim youths with a number being recruited into terrorist groups. As a result of this there are increasing incidences of attacks on Christians and churches (sanctuaries) especially in Muslim dominated areas such as Mombasa.
4. Breakdown of Family Systems: The family system is increasingly affected by changes in lifestyles, social and economic pressures. Cases of separation and divorce even among Christians are increasing. There is greater push by homosexuals for their rights to be recognized.
5. Negative Exposure through Technology: The increased access to technology especially the internet exposes the youth to negative influences and importation of foreign values and ungodly culture. The social media has too much information which is accessible even by children creating new challenges to parents who in most cases are less exposed. Improper use of social media could also expose the Church to negative publicity.
6. Hard Economic Times: The effect of improved economic situation has not trickled down yet to the poor who make the majority in the country. The continued rise in the cost of basic commodities continues to impact both households and institutions. The hard economic times is a contributor to the high level of unemployment and could lead to further restructurings both by government and other sectors leading to job losses. The high cost of living has also resulted in perpetual increase in the cost of real estate making it difficult for a church like VOSH to acquire land and develop decent sanctuaries.
7. High Poverty Level: The high level of poverty and disparities that exist on income distribution, as well as unemployment has resulted in a high number of vulnerable people who then resort to unorthodox means of survival which has contributed to high level of insecurity in the country. The ones who resolve to live an upright life would turn to the Church which already finds itself overburdened for support
8. High Prevalence of HIV: The HIV prevalence is quite high in a number of counties where VOSH has a large presence (See Appendix 4). The high incidences of HIV/AIDS places increased burden on the church from the many funerals, to the large number of orphans and the many destitute widows that expect to experience the love and compassion of Christ through the Church.
9. Increase in Number of Churches that Preach Unsound Doctrines: There has been an upsurge of churches in Kenya, a number of which preach unsound doctrines and strange practices. A number of these are tele-evangelists who preach prosperity gospel (which puts more emphasis on material blessings at the expense of sound doctrine) and are luring away Christians from the more established churches like VOSH in a big way. These churches appeal easily particularly to people in difficult circumstances. In addition to this, the music that comes with the “celebrity” culture is luring young people to other churches.

4.0 STRATEGIC DIRECTION

4.1 OVERVIEW

The development of this strategic plan has provided VOSH with opportunity to reflect and redefine the vision and mission of the Church and to articulate the core values it subscribes to. The plan is a best effort by the leadership of the Church to envision the path it believes that God wants its ministry to take in the next five years. The plan has been informed by a number of factors that include the rich history of the Church, the present-day realities of the environment in which the Church operates, the strengths and weaknesses of VOSH, and the recognition that while we are in a fast changing and dynamic world the eternal truths held by the Church never change. There is recognition that the Church will continue developing effective methods of ministry, while holding steadfastly to its cherished values.

The plan will also serve as tool to communicate to the key stakeholders of the Church the strategic and specific objectives, as well as the actions that will be taken to achieve the objectives. Since the Church operates in a dynamic and fast changing environment, the plan is not “cast in stone,” but is submitted to the sovereign direction of the Lord who will at each stage help the Church to discern the next best course of action.

4.2 VISION, MISSION AND CORE VALUES

4.2.1 Vision

- ϕ Prayer and Fasting: The ministry of VOSH is founded in prayer and fasting and we are committed to uphold these both at individual and collective levels. We shall always respond to issues that affect us with prayer and fasting.
- ϕ Integrity: We are honest, accountable, and act in an ethical manner in everything we do and our lives are a testimony of our faith in Jesus Christ.

- ϕ Holiness: We walk a life that is soundly rooted in Scriptures, committed to the leading of the Holy Spirit, and daily walk-in righteousness, sanctified in word and deed.
- ϕ Modesty: We are committed to be respectful and presentable in our behavior and in the conduct of our daily activities. As the written letters of Christ, we shall in our manner of life act, dress, and speak with respect and moderation. The way we live should make others treat us with respect and dignity.
- ϕ Humility: We are called to serve in a world where there is diversity and social differences among the people we connect with. We shall be courteous, show respect, and exercise tolerance when dealing with one another and other people that come our way. We shall be open to listen to perspectives that differ from our own, not seek self-recognition and attention, and make people appreciate their worth.
- ϕ Care: We are united as a family church; we respect and support one another. We are welcoming and are committed to be instruments through which the love and compassion of Christ is extended to the hurting world.
- ϕ Justice: We are a voice that stands for the rights of the poor, the oppressed, and the vulnerable and shall stand for systems that give people dignified lives and do not discriminate.

6.0 IMPLEMENTATION OF THE PLAN

The ownership of the plan will principally be with the National Council of Elders who will ensure the existence of an enabling environment for its implementation. It will however be shared widely within the Church leadership and the entire Church fraternity to secure wider ownership and commitment to its implementation.

The plan provides the basis upon which specific annual plans will be developed by the management.

6.1 CRITICAL SUCCESS FACTORS

There are a number of factors that are critical to the successful implementation of this plan. Among these are:

- ϕ Prayer: VOSH will dedicate time for prayer and fasting for the Strategic Plan. The church will also commit a team that will pray continually.
- ϕ Commitment to the Process: The implementation of this plan will require willingness, dedication, and cooperation at all levels within the Church. It will also require tolerance as it addresses the more challenging aspects. It calls on the leadership to create an enabling environment to support the implementation process. The people will be sensitized on the strategic plan through appropriate forums in order to obtain their commitment to it. The sensitizations will involve an appreciation process leading to people adopting positive attitude to the plan. The process will also involve creating understanding and cooperation between members and leaders.
- ϕ Mobilization of Resources: VOSH will constitute a team to audit the financial and human resource capacity of the Church at the moment. This will include professionals within the VOSH fraternity that can be engaged/appointed in the various Committees and Task-Forces and at times can be approached for pro-bono services. The outcome of the audit will provide the Church with a basis upon which to develop a resource mobilization strategy to fund the plan. The strategy will identify areas where VOSH can partner with other individuals, agencies and organizations in the implementation of the plan.
- ϕ Monitoring and Evaluation: The Church will institute a system of progressive monitoring backed by measurable parameters and put in place mechanisms for providing oversight on the implementation. The plan will be guided by clearly defined action points with each task assigned a responsible person. These will be subjected to periodic reviews with evaluations undertaken at appropriate times as the implementation progresses and where necessary adjustments will be made. A mid-term evaluation has been built in as part of the process.

6.2 FUNDING THE PLAN

The implementation of this plan will require the church to mobilize adequate resources both from traditional sources and non-traditional sources.

- Tithes and offerings shall remain the primary source of supporting ministry in line with the Bible teaching. Any other sources of funding shall not substitute the place of tithes and offerings in the life of the church and individual Christians.
- The Church shall through the business development initiatives come up with business plans for ventures that should be run on commercial basis with the aim of making surpluses that will be applied towards support to ministry.

- There are aspects of the plan that shall be developed into programmes and projects for which the Church shall seek external funding. The Church shall ensure that such funding do not carry terms and conditions that would be in conflict with its doctrinal beliefs and values.

6.4 MONITORING AND EVALUATION

The following are core tools and approaches that will be used in monitoring and evaluation of the plan:

- (a) Operational Plans: The Executive Board will facilitate the development of an implementation framework and operational plans. The plans which will provide timeframes for each aspect and activity covered in this plan will be a key tool for enhanced performance management.
- (b) Reporting Format: A common format that will be used for periodic reporting and monitoring of this plan will be developed. The Executive Board will establish a timetable that will enable effective monitoring using the format.
- (c) Periodic Reporting: The individuals who are charged with the responsibility of implementation of any aspect of this plan will be required to give periodic progress report in the prescribed format. The responsibility for coordinating the reporting process will rest with the Church Administrator.
